Item 7 – Types of Clients

Giraffe Invest primarily provides services to individuals and high net-worth clients.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Portfolio management seeks to reduce risk and volatility without sacrificing long-term returns by diversifying across many asset classes. The first step toward achieving a diversification method that is suitable is by first seeking to understand the strategy and composition behind their current portfolio.

- Behavioral Analysis

Behavioral analysis involves an examination of conventional economics as well as behavioral and cognitive psychological factors. Behavioral finance methodology seeks to combine a qualitative and quantitative approach to provide explanations for why individuals may, at times, make irrational financial decisions. Where conventional financial theories have failed to explain certain patterns, the behavioral finance methodology investigates the underlying reasons and biases that cause some people to behave against their best interests. The risks relating to behavior finance analysis are that it relies on spotting trends in human behavior that may not predict future trends.

Investment Strategies include:

Accumulation Strategies

Portfolios focused on total return - growth of value through interest, capital gains, and dividends proportionate to a client's risk profile. The portfolios are designed to seek intermediate and long-term capital appreciation and actively adjusted to take advantage of opportunities in the market.

Income Strategies

Portfolios that seek consistent, reliable distributions from a variety of traditional and non-traditional income-producing assets from around the globe that offer income opportunities consistent with a client's risk profile.

Protection Strategies

Portfolios that pursue capital growth during sustained market uptrends yet seek protection of assets during market downturns. The portfolios seek long-term growth as well as protection of principal consistent with a client's lower risk profile and/or shorter time horizon.

Tax Managed Strategies

Portfolios that seek capital appreciation while keeping annual net taxable gains low. The portfolios are designed to seek tax efficiency.

Impact Investing Strategies

Investments made into companies committed to social responsibility and environmental purpose combined with a pursuit of profits.

Direct Index Mirroring Strategies

Equity investments to reflect the positions that represent an index and mirror returns in an attempt to replicate the performance of an index by purchasing the underlying individual equities instead of using an ETF or mutual fund in an investor's portfolio.

Fractional Shares

Fractional share trading allows very small amounts of money to be invested in each position, allowing even the smallest investor to participate.

Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves certain investment risks. Securities may fluctuate in value or lose value. Clients should be prepared to bear the potential risk of loss. Below is a list of risks that should be considered prior to investing. Additional unforeseen risks may apply and affect investment performance.

- Force Majeure – A natural and unavoidable catastrophe that interrupts the expected course of events, market structure and access to funds.
- Allocation Risk - The allocation of investments among different global asset classes may have a significant effect on your portfolio's value, when one of these asset classes is performing more poorly than others. As both the direct investments and derivative positions will be periodically adjusted to reflect our view of market and economic conditions, there will be transactions costs which may be, over time, significant. In addition, there is a risk that certain asset allocation decisions may not achieve the desired results and, as a result, your portfolio may incur significant losses.
- Business Risk – The measure of risk associated with a particular security. It is also known as unsystematic risk and refers to the risk associated with a specific issuer of a security. Generally speaking, all businesses in the same industry have similar types of business risk. More specifically, business risk refers to the possibility that the issuer of a particular company stock or a bond may go bankrupt or be unable to pay the interest or principal in the case of bonds.

- Call Risk – The risk specific to bond issues and refers to the possibility that a debt security will be called prior to maturity. Call risk usually goes hand in hand with reinvestment risk because the bondholder must find an investment that provides the same level of income for equal risk. Call risk is most prevalent when interest rates are falling, as companies trying to save money will usually redeem bond issues with higher coupons and replace them on the bond market with issues with lower interest rates.
- Company Specific Risk – An unsystemic risk specific to a certain company's operations, executive decisions and reputation which is difficult to quantify.
- Concentration Risk – Concentrated portfolios are an aggressive and highly volatile approach to trading and investing and should be viewed as complementary to a stable, highly predictable investment approach. Concentrated portfolios hold fewer different stocks than a diversified portfolio and are much more likely to experience sudden dramatic price swings. In addition, the rise or drop in price of any given holding in the portfolio is likely to have a larger impact on portfolio performance, than a more broadly diversified portfolio.
- Credit Risk – The risk that an investor could lose money if the issuer or guarantor of a fixed income security is unable or unwilling to meet its financial obligations.
- Currency/Exchange Rate Risk – The risk of a change in the price of one currency against another.
- Ethical Investing Risk – The risks associated with ethical investing include the risk of personal alignment of what is considered ethical between different investors and the portfolio manager as well as a limited ability to diversify.
- Indexing Risk – The risks associated with indexing include a lack of flexibility to react to price declines in the securities of the index, tracking error and underperform due to fees, expenses and trading costs.
- Interest Rate Risk – The risk that fixed income securities will decline in value because of an increase in interest rates; a bond or a fixed income fund with a longer duration will be more sensitive to changes in interest rates than a bond or bond fund with a shorter duration.
- Investment Company and Exchange Traded Fund Risk – Some of our strategies allow for investments in investment companies (also known as mutual funds) and exchange traded funds (“ETF”). An investment in an investment company or ETF involves substantially the same risks as investing directly in the underlying securities. An investment company or ETF may not achieve its investment objective or execute its investment strategy effectively, which may adversely affect your portfolio's performance. Your portfolio must pay its pro rata portion of an investment company's or ETF's fees and expenses. Shares of a closed-end investment company or ETF may trade at a premium or discount to the net asset value of its portfolio securities.

- Inflationary Risk – The risk that future inflation will cause the purchasing power of cash flow from an investment to decline.
- Legislative Risk – The risk of a legislative ruling resulting in adverse consequences.
- Liquidity Risk – The possibility that an investor may not be able to buy or sell an investment as and when desired or in sufficient quantities because opportunities are limited.
- Market Risk – The risk that the value of securities may go up or down, sometimes rapidly or unpredictably, due to factors affecting securities markets generally or particular industries. This is a risk that will affect all securities in the same manner caused by some factor that cannot be controlled by diversification.
- Municipal Bond Risk – Municipal securities issuers may face local economic or business conditions (including bankruptcy) and litigation, legislation or other political events that could have a significant effect on the ability of the municipality to make payments on the interest or principal of its municipal bonds. In addition, because municipalities issue municipal securities to finance similar types of projects, such as education, healthcare, transportation, infrastructure and utility projects, conditions in those sectors can affect the overall municipal bond market. Furthermore, changes in the financial condition of one municipality may affect the overall municipal bond market. The municipal obligations in which clients invest will be subject to credit risk, market risk, interest rate risk, credit spread risk, selection risk, call and redemption risk and tax risk, and the occurrence of any one of these risks may materially and adversely affect the value of the Client's assets or profits.
- Pandemic Risk – Large-scale outbreaks of infectious disease that can greatly increase morbidity and mortality over a wide geographic area, crossing international boundaries, and causing significant economic, social, and political disruption.
- Real Estate Related Securities Risk – Investing in real estate related securities includes, among others, the following risks: possible declines in the value of real estate; risks related to general and local economic conditions, including increases in the rate of inflation; possible lack of availability of mortgage funds; overbuilding; extending vacancies of properties; increases in competition, property taxes and operating expenses; changes in zoning laws; costs resulting from cleanup of, and liability to third parties for damages resulting from environmental problems; casualty or condemnation losses; uninsured damages from floods, earth quakes or other natural disasters; limitations on and variations in rents; and changes in interest rates. Investing in Real Estate Investment Trusts (“REITs”) involves certain unique risks in addition to those risks associated with investing in the real estate industry in general. REITs are dependent upon management skills, are not diversified, and are subject to heavy cash flow dependency, default by borrowers and self-liquidation.

- Reinvestment Risk – The risk that falling interest rates will lead to a decline in cash flow from an investment when its principal and interest payments are reinvested at lower rates.
- Social/Political Risk – the possibility of nationalization, unfavorable government action or social changes resulting in a loss of value.
- Taxability Risk – the risk that a security that was issued with tax-exempt status could potentially lose that status prior to maturity. Since municipal bonds carry a lower interest rate than fully taxable bonds, the bond holders would end up with a lower after-tax yield than originally planned.
- Terrorism Risk – An act of terror or calculated use of violence against the country, market structure or individuals.

The firms’ methods of analysis and investment strategies do not represent any significant or unusual risks however all strategies have inherent risks and performance limitations.

Types of Investments (Examples, not limitations)

Giraffe Invest allocates client’s assets to help them reach their individual investment objectives within their time horizon in a manner consistent with their risk profile. Giraffe Invest generally offers the following types of securities to mirror an index.

- Cash Positions – Based on a perceived or anticipated market conditions and/or events, certain assets may be taken out of the market and held in a defensive cash position. All cash may be included as assets subject to the agreed upon advisory fee. Other investment types may be included as appropriate for a particular client and their respective trading objectives. Giraffe Invest generally invest client’s cash balances in money market funds, FDIC Insured Certificates of Deposit, high-grade commercial paper and/or government backed debt instruments. Ultimately, we try to achieve a reasonable return on our client’s cash balances through relatively low-risk conservative investments.

- Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) – An ETF is a portfolio of securities invested to track a market index similar to an index mutual fund, but the shares are traded on an exchange like an equity. An ETF share price fluctuates intraday depending on market conditions instead of having a net asset value (NAV) that is calculated once at the end of the day. The shares may trade at a premium or discount; and as a result, investors pay more or less when purchasing shares and receive more or less than when selling shares. The supply of ETF shares is regulated through a mechanism known as creation and redemption that involves large, specialized investors, known as authorized participants (APs). Authorized participants are large financial institutions with a high degree of buying power, such as market makers, banks or investment companies that provide market liquidity. When there is a shortage of shares in the market, the authorized participant creates more (creation). Conversely, the authorized participant will reduce shares in circulation (redemption) when supply falls short of demand. Multiple authorized participants help improve the liquidity of a particular ETF and stabilize the share price. To the extent that authorized participants cannot or are otherwise unwilling to engage in creation and redemption transactions, shares of an ETF tend to trade at a significant discount or premium and may face trading halts and delisting from the exchange.
- Equities - An equity investment is money that is invested in a company by purchasing shares of that company on a stock exchange. Equity investors purchase shares of a company with the expectation that they'll rise in value in the form of capital gains, and/or generate capital dividends. If an equity investment rises in value, the investor would receive the monetary difference if they sold their shares, or if the company's assets are liquidated and all its obligations are met. Equities can strengthen a portfolio's asset allocation by adding diversification.
- Over the Counter (OTC) – The process of how securities are traded via a broker/dealer network as opposed to on a centralized exchange. Over-the-counter trading can involve equities, debt instruments, and derivatives. In some cases, securities might not meet the requirements to have a listing on a standard market exchange.

Past performance is not a guarantee of future returns. Investing in securities and other investments involve a risk of loss that each Client should understand and be willing to bear. Clients are reminded to discuss these risks with the Advisor.

A fiduciary duty is considered the core underlying principle for a Code of Ethics which also includes Insider Trading and Personal Securities Transactions Policies and Procedures. All business must be conducted with the highest level of ethical standards and to comply with all federal and state securities laws at all times.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

Giraffe Invest does not maintain discretionary authority in determining the broker/dealer with whom orders for the purchase and sale of securities are placed for execution or the commission rates. Client assets must be maintained in an account at a “qualified custodian,” generally a broker/dealer or bank.

Giraffe Invest, by separate agreement, selects broker/dealer custodians for its Platform that are suited to pair with the Firm's technology stack. The current list includes Apex, Altruist and Goldman Portfolios. Factors considered in selecting a custodian for its Platform include but are not limited to historical relationship, financial strength, reputation, execution capabilities, pricing, research, technological capabilities, and service.

Trading Practices

Model portfolios are designed and managed exclusively by Giraffe Invest. Giraffe Invest uses a digital solution to facilitate trading and custody through a back-end platform built for safety, scale, and speed.

Giraffe Invest is subject to the trading policies and procedures established by the custodians. These policies and procedures limit Giraffe Invest's ability to control, among other things, the timing of the execution of certain trades (including in response to withdrawals, deposits, or asset allocation changes) within a client account. Clients should not expect that trading is instant, and, accordingly, should be aware that trading at a specific time during the day is not supported

Best Execution

In seeking best execution, Giraffe Invest considers not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration factors, as applicable, such as the full range of a broker-dealer's services, including the value of the technology services provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. Accordingly, Giraffe Invest may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for Program Account transactions. The brokerage commissions or transaction fees charged by the designated broker/dealer are exclusive of, and in addition to, Giraffe Invest's fee.

Trade Aggregation

Giraffe Invest, LLC does not aggregate trades.

Soft Dollar

Under "soft dollar" arrangements, brokerage firms provide or pay the costs of certain services, equipment, or other items. Giraffe Invest does not receive any soft dollar support. However, Giraffe Invest receives certain benefits from the custodian of client assets that includes some or all of the following: discounts on compliance, marketing, technology, and practice management products or services provided by third party vendors.

The benefits received are not considered "soft dollar" because they do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions; however, Giraffe Invest has an incentive because of these benefits which is a conflict of interest.

Giraffe Invest, as an internet only Advisor, does not periodically review client accounts. However, Clients will receive brokerage statements no less than quarterly from the Custodian. These brokerage statements are sent directly from the Custodian to the Client. Client account statements will include all positions, transactions and fees relating to the Client's account[s]. Giraffe Invest could also receive an occasional economic benefit from a product sponsor that is not based on advisory services. Compensation could include promotional gifts valued at less than $100 annually, an occasional dinner or ticket to a sporting event, or reimbursement in connection with educational meetings, workshops, or marketing event.

Referral Fees

Giraffe Invest does not directly or indirectly compensate any person for client referrals.

Item 15 – Custody

Client statements will be available for review on the "activity section" of the Custodian's account portal.

- Payment of fees may result in the liquidation of a client's positions if there are insufficient funds in the account.
- Fees are assessed on all assets in the account(s), including securities, cash, or money market balances.
- Margin debits do not reduce the value of the assets in the account for billing purposes.
